Losers big campaign spenders

OAKLAND — Republican George Oakes and Democrat Bill Vandenburgh spent $25,000 each in their unsuccessful campaigns for the 15th Assembly District seat left vacant by the death of Carlos Bee.

Only five of the 15 candidates who competed in the Feb. 4 primary election had filed campaign statements by late Thursday afternoon. The statements were due Tuesday and cover the period which ended Feb. 22.

Democrat Floyd Mori and Republican Guy Puccio, two of the three candidates who won that primary and who will compete on Tuesday for the Assembly seat, have also filed statements, according to the Alameda County Registrar of Voters.

Mori's statement indicates he has spent $16,319.43 as of Feb. 22 and has raised $30,763.69. Puccio lists expenses of $14,809 and revenues of $17,076. (It is important to remember that Puccio's and Mori's statements include expenses for both the primary election and run-off election expenditures that occurred prior to Feb. 22.)

Oakes' statement indicates expenditures of $25,465.22 compared to revenues of $20,724.96. Vandenburgh spent $24,310.33 and raised $24,989.01.

The only other candidate who has filed a statement was Democrat Joyce LeClaire, who indicated she spent $7,171.96 and raised $6,300.50.

Livermore loses bid on 'New Town' sphere

HAYWARD — The City of Livermore failed in its efforts to retain the 9,000-acre Las Positas Valley in its sphere of influence Thursday.

By a 4-1 vote and after three and a half hours of discussion, the Local Agency Formation Commission moved to remove that area from Livermore's sphere.

That decision corresponds with a similar one made by LAFCO in the fall of 1973. The final action was dependent on completion of an environmental impact report, which was distributed late last week.

Livermore City Attorney Bob Logan attempted to have LAFCO continue consideration of the EIR for 30 days because, he said Livermore had not had sufficient time to respond to it. That request was denied because, LAFCO commissioners said, the City of Livermore had never even responded in writing to the draft EIR, which was released in late January.

Livermore city officials and Don Crawford of the consultant firm hired by the city to revise the general plan made an extensive presentation in an attempt to convince LAFCO to retain the city's previous sphere of influence.

Planning Director George Musso, City Manager Bill Parness, Vice Mayor Archer Futch and Director of Public Works Dan Lee contended Livermore has planned for the Las Positas Valley and, if the area develops at all, it should develop within an established municipal system.

Musso also contended further residential development in the Las Positas Valley was not necessary because there are sufficient zoned lands within Livermore's city limits to accomodate "another 20,000 to 30,000 people".

Logan contended LAFCO's decision to reduce the size of Livermore's sphere — in conjunction with the Alameda County Board of Supervisors' action to amend the county general plan to allow Harlan Geldermann's proposed "New Town" — was a violation of LAFCO's own policies. Those policies, he added, state urban sprawl should be discouraged and development by existing local agencies should be included.

He also contended ultimate development of "New Town" will have a "dramatic effect on a valley that is already a critical air basin. It is obviously a growth-inducing impact," he said.

LAFCO Commissioner Tom Schweser, who did not participate in the board's 1973 decision, told the Livermore officials, "All the arguments you have given today have convinced me that what LAFCO did was correct. Nothing has been proposed to establish another entity," he added. "LAFCO's decision is to eliminate it (the Las Positas Valley) from Livermore's sphere and put it in an area where nothing is going to happen." Schweser also said he did not believe "New Town" would be developed "for a long time ahead."

Commissioner Joseph Bort, who is also a member of the Alameda County Board of Supervisors and opposed the general plan amendment, opposed the LAFCO action because he said he would "include the lower 40 percent of the Las Positas Valley in Livermore's sphere of influence."

Commissioners voting for the motion were Murphy (who also sits on the board of supervisors and voted for the general plan amendment), Schweser, Arthur Flegal and Jack Maltester.

Livermore has filed suit against the board of supervisors over that general plan amendment and Logan indicated, after Thursday's meeting, litigation against LAFCO might also be considered.

Old West captured

Family's room reflects hobby

LIVERMORE — Step into the recreation room of the Dick Payne family and you're surrounded by the history of the old West.

The room is lit by kerosene mining lamps, railroad lanterns and saloon lamps. Not that they are old - fashioned — a 200- Watt Edison Mazda light bulb also is in use. A wood and coal - burning stove heats the room (one of the few items that isn't the real thing —its only a replica of an old stove). Furniture consists of an old trunk, roll-top desk that used to belong to Tom Brady, Livermore's first deputy tax assessor, another desk put together with square nails and pegs, found in the office of an old ore mill superintendent, and a display case built from old cabins' wood full of old West artifacts.

Adorning the walls and counter tops are $1, $5, $10, $20 and $30 bills and gold pieces, the oldest of which is a $30 bill in Continental currancy, dated July 10, 1775. A Stromberg - Carlson telephone is mounted on the wall and is in working order, thanks to the insertion of a Princess telephone dial within its vast chamber.

In short, the room is perfect for a family of old West history buffs.

Payne and his wife Lyn have been collecting old items for the past 12 years. Joined by their six children, they have traveled and camped for thousands of miles up and down the Mother Lode, in the Sierras and Nevada.

Ironically, one of Payne's most prized possessions — a collection of six embossed bottles from "McKown & Mess Druggists, Livermore, Cal." — didn't require much traveling at all.

He dug them up from a dump across the road from the Lawrence Livermore Laboratory.

The collector explained why the 50 - year old bottles so valuable.

"To get something dated, identified and embossed really means something."

Originally, Payne was a coin collector and is a past president of the Livermore Valley Coin Club.

"The history behind the coins got me interested in this," he said. He has since traded off most of his coins for articles relating to his newer interest.

According to Payne, he has bought more items than he has found. "The places where it's okay to dig are very few.

"If it is okay, it's usually pretty well dug over."

None the less, he takes his metal detector with him when he travels and has done his share of digging.

Also prized by Payne is a set of handmade triangular assay crucibles dating back to the early 1800's in Nevada. They are part of his collection of more than 250 various sized assay crucibles.

Sample's of Payne's collection presently are being shown as part of the Amador-Livermore Valley Historical Society's Museum exhibit at the Pleasanton Fairgrounds.

During the summer of 1973, when Rhodes Department Store in Dublin was advertising its Gold Rush Days Sale, Payne's display case — containing coins, bottles, bullet shells and light bulbs, to name a few items — was borrowed by the business.

Part of his collection also has

Poll gives edge to Floyd Mori

The 15th Assembly District race heated up at week's end with the Mori camp suggesting that the Puccio campaign team is "guilty of several illegal mailings," and the "Democrats for Puccio" still threatening to swing that party's support away from the Democratic mayor of Pleasanton.

Even more significant however was the first disclosure of a sampling made by a political science class at Cal State Hayward. Professor James Fay reported Thursday night that "of 137 registered voters who indicated they planned to vote on Tuesday, 54 percent said they will vote for Mori, or favor him, and 44 percent said they will vote for, or favor, Puccio."

Prof. Fay also said that "just over 200 of those contacted said they did not plan to vote." Fay had hoped to get "over 300 respondents to the survey," but said a week of calling by his political science class produced just those 137 firm replies. His class spent two and one - half weeks preparing for the poll which produced 96 replies from west of the hills, and 41 replies from the Amador - Livermore Valley.

"With that small sampling, you have to figure a possible margin of error of ten percent," Prof. Fay said, adding however "the margin for Mr. Mori is still substantial."

MORE CHARGES

The "dirty mail" fight produced still more political charges on Thursday with Floyd Mori's campaign headquarters denouncing a second distribution from "Democrats for Good Government." This second piece — apparently sent to some 13,000 registered Democrats as was the first such mailer — repeated that first letter (reported in Thursday's press) and added a slam against the "Mori for Nixon" endorsement which Floyd Mori admits to having given the former president, early in the latter's presidential campaigning.

"We are more concerned however with the repeat of those allegations suggesting that Mr. Mori has 'repeatedly refused to meet his opponent publicly," when Mr. Puccio himself has refuted those charges, and says he regrets them," according to Ken Mono, Mori's campaign advisor.

Campus smoking ok near

The California Senate has narrowly cleared legislation that would allow local school boards to decide if smoking areas are to be set aside on campus for use by high school students.

The bill now goes to the Assembly where approval is expected by an even a wider margin than was given by the Senate.

If the legislation clears Governor Brown's desk, it could leave local school districts saddled with one of the hottest issues since the old "dress code" confrontations of the late sixties. Supporters of "student smoking areas" argue that current laws relative to use of tobacco by minors are "confusing and conflicting." Enforcement of "no smoking" codes on high school campuses is a major contributing factor to students dropping out of school, it has been reasoned. Student supporters of this legislation also contend that "rest rooms are a smoke - filled jungle which non - smokers dare not enter" under the current "no smoking" edicts.

Kinney for mayor Mercer for council

If Floyd Mori is successful in his bid next Tuesday for the 15th Assembly District vacancy, then Ed Kinney will be the next mayor of the City of Pleasanton.

And Ken Mercer will be named to the vacated city council post.

That is "the inside betting" after weeks of political tussling over the two big decisions facing the Pleasanton council. Both Kinney, who is now the Mayor Pro Tem, and Councilman Bill Herlihy are known to have their eye on the council's leadership. Right now, the word is that "Kinney has the votes, and Herlihy doesn't."

The search for a council appointee to the vacated council seat, and one who could command at least three votes from the remaining four council members in order to get that appointment, has been thorough, and difficult. But right now the word is that "Mercer has the job, if he wants it."

A longtime member of Pacific Telephone's valley executive force, Mercer quit PT&T for a year's stint as administrative aide for the late Assemblyman Carlos Bee. He returned to Pacific Telephone last year. In 1972 Mercer served as president of the Livermore Chamber of Commerce. Currently he is chairman of the Pleasanton Bicentennial Committee, a post to which he was appointed by Mayor Mori.

If Mercer is called upon to fill the council vacancy, he will serve just one year before he has to stand for election to a full four - year term.

May 4 pivotal Murray day

March 4 may be one of the most pivotal days in Murray Elementary School District history.

Not only will voters in the district select three board members, two of whom will replace long - standing members but also the district is going for a revenue limit increase election that officials say is a necessity for quality education to continue in the district.

It's quite possible that three new faces— and thus a majority — may take their spots on the board and perhaps change the direction of the district. However, none of the candidates have really pinpointed their disagreements with the present board and two admit they probably wouldn't have run if the incumbents had stood for election again.

The only incumbent running for re-election is clerk Bob Foster. Foster would like to see small classes and small schools but admits that under Senate Bill 90, the present method of school financing, funds won't be available.

"If you want local government, you'll have to pay for it" says Foster as he sees increasing state control unless residents supply their own money. Naturally he is in favor of the revenue limit increase measure, as are all the candidates.

Two other incumbents— Art Laursen and John Henderson— are stepping down after lengthy terms, but Henderson's seat is being pursued by his wife Ann.

She claims, however, that she is independent and will not simply echo her husband's policies. She was a teacher in San Francisco but is not wholeheartedly for large teacher raises.

She feels she has some creative ideas to offer the district as she has been close to MESD through her husband and her children who have attended district schools.

Peter Snyder, a salesman, has run for the board before and has lived in Dublin since 1961. He has an impressive list of credits on civic committees, including the MESD Early Childhood Education Committee and the MESD Affirmative Action Hiring Program Committee.

Snyder feels a 20 per cent raise for teachers is out of line but he has no specific bones to pick with board policies over the past few years.

Snyder has been active in church affairs and the Lions Club, among other activities.

Edward Speis was once employed by MESD but now works at Federal Youth Center in Camp Parks. Speis says he is not a "yes man" and has some background in labor affairs.

However, he does not believe in a huge hike in teacher salaries and like the others, is uncertain about the effectiveness of SB 90.

His most controversial stand is a flat - out oppostion to the pod system of education now employed at several schools in the district. He much favors the traditional form of teaching over the more experimental pod system.

Eugene Hinton and Judy Cuesta both stated that they would not have run if the incumbents had run again and neither has significant experience in education. Both were generally in favor of present board policies and had no opinion on SB 90.

School candidates respond to Times' queries

Amador Valley High School District board candidates Dr. Geraldine Donaldson and Mayo Miller have issued their commentaries on four questions asked of them by The Times.

Two seats will be up for election Tuesday as Miller and Charles Beazley are seeking another four-year term.

Dr. Donaldson has been on the Pleasanton Elementary School District board 12 years and is currently president. She is a pediatrician with offices in Livermore.

Miller was originally appointed to the board and has served nine years. He is an analyst of building problems with Pacific Telephone in San Jose and has resided in Pleasanton 40 years.

Miller responded as follows to the question, "Dr. Newlin is carrying on the concept of participative management. Do you think classroom teachers should have some role in it and, if so, what"?

"The classroom teachers do have a role in participative management. Each student, teacher, administrator and board member has their part to fulfill in turning a concept into a workable and effective educational system. Our largest and most pressing task is to learn our individual roles, to obtain and give objective input for implementing the system."

Dr. Geraldine Donaldson

Dr. Donaldson says "participative management in actual practice should be to everyone's advantage . . . students, the teachers and the administration.

"Teachers can then have the opportunity to express their opinions regarding the most effective way of teaching students and imbuing them with a desire to learn. However, should a teacher wish to be excluded from participation in decision making, the teacher does have that freedom.

"Not only are individuals happier working under conditions they have helped to bring about, but the district is richer for having the advantages of the wealth of their talent."

The second question asked, "What subject areas should be stressed more, and why"?

Dr. Donaldson replied, "One of the reasons I am interested in serving on the high school board is because of an interest in influencing curriculum.

"With the staff and the board developing graduation requirements, this is an opportune time. After seeing the many needs of very young parents in the area of health education and parenting, and in the lack of knowledge of the responsibilities of homemaking and child rearing, I would like to see more of this stressed in high school. Communication skills should be developed in every graduate as well.

"I would like to see students develop greater feelings of self worth, whether they are in vocational courses or in college prep courses."

Says Miller, "I think the greatest need lies in the area of vocational training and education. Too many students and teachers as well as administrators tend to present and enroll in watered down vocational ed courses as an easy way to 'get the student through school.' It isn't good for the student, school or community."

The third question asked, "In light of the present economy, in what specific areas do you think cutbacks could be made, if necessary"?

Miller responded, "I have no preconceived areas for cutting back at this time. Each budget item must be considered on its own merit (as to the need and effect on the toal educational program)."

Dr. Donaldson replied, "Cutbacks in a school budget are always unpleasant. It is difficult for a lay person to arbitrarily pick areas to cut back since there are no frivolous items in the budget, even non-academic activities contribute in a very important way to the development of students.

Mayo Miller

"From past experience the best a board member can do is let the administration, working with the staff, develop a proposed priority list to be evaluated item by item with the full board so each member can have the benefit of the other's ideas."

Responses from candidates on the final question ran the gamut.

"How much time, in terms of hours per month, do you believe it will be necessary to spend on school board affairs (meetings, school visits, conferences)"?

Dr. Donaldson gave a precise estimation, indicating 2½ to 4 days per year for conferences, 4 to 8 hours per month for board meetings, 2 hours per month for preparation, 3 hours for visitations, 1 hour for consultation with superintendent, 2 hours for travel and 4 hours for additional reading.

"These are pure guesses," adds Dr. Donaldson, "as I have never actually kept records."

Miller said, "I have no idea of future school board activity demands or requirements. Each member must evaluate the use and allotment of his or her time for this commitment and let his or her conscience be the guide."

There are a total of 15,444 registered voters in the Amador district, grouped in 42 precincts. Polling stations will be open from 7 a.m. until 8 p.m. on Tuesday.

The Pleasanton district, which sees five aspirants vying for two seats, has 8,236 registered voters in 21 precincts.

Sunol Glen voters have no contest as incumbent Hank Schneider is running unopposed for the only seat open.

There are two precincts with 341 registered voters in Sunol.

100-PLUS-MPH CHASE

Police rammed the Mustang into an embankment to stop the chase.

Four nabbed in high speed chase

LIVERMORE — Four juveniles were arrested Thursday morning after a chase through the streets of Livermore that ended when a city police patrol car rammed the suspects into an embankment on Tesla Road.

Police claim to have chased the youths at speeds "in excess of 100 mph" on outer East Avenue, Greenville and Tesla Roads, and think they may have uncovered a cache of stolen property in the car.

This is the second 100-plus-mph chase for Livermore police in less than six-weeks.

According to patrolman Louis Andrade a dark green 1967 Mustang tried to run another car off the road near Germaine and Madeira Ways at 11:15 a.m.

Andrade gave chase as the Mustang, piloted by a 16-year-old, ran him around Leahy Square and took off down East Avenue accelerating to more than 100 mph.

Patrolman John Leal came to Andrade's assistance and was rammed by the rampaging Mustang at East Avenue and Jensen Street.

Andrade, whose patrol car is faster than Leal's, continued the chase on to Greenville and Tesla Roads.

"Every time I'd go around a bend, there'd be another one up ahead."

On a straight away some two miles east of Greenville Road, Andrade, his patrol car overheated and smoking, rammed the Mustang into an embankment to bring it to a stop.

The patrol car's engine, as well as the extensively modified engine of the Mustang, were now flaming, and police dispatchers sent a Livermore fire unit to quelch the blazes.

Andrade and Leal were joined at the scene by Detective Sgt. Dave Hollander, who found what may be stolen property in the glove- box, including auto gauges and a woman's watch.

The Mustang was impounded for further investigation and the four youths — the 16-year-old driver and his three 17-year-old passengers — were taken to police headquarters.

Poll favors Mori

Mono further revealed that "we are asking the Fair Political Practices Commission to investigate why the Puccio group has reported having mailed only one piece of campaign literature in February, when in fact their mailing permit shows that no less than four such pieces have gone out."

(A check with that commission by The Times revealed that "the language is vague" as to when such mailings shall be reported with the state board, "but we assume the candidate will send us a copy at the same time the mailing goes out to the registered voters," explained Robert Stern.)

In yet another development, there were reports that a meeting of the Livermore Democratic Club which had been routinely scheduled for Thursday night "will be stacked with Puccio backers who will attempt to get through a resolution rejecting Mori as the Democratic standard bearer."

Mori's camp was facing "a difficult problem" of its own today with a large mailing that will include endorsements for that candidate "from every major Democratic office holder in the county, and including Governor Brown." However that piece also includes a paragraph which "the Mori people find offensive," according to Mono. The offending language refers to Puccio as "a Republican carpet bagger whose family residence is in Calaveras County."

"We don't like that kind of thing, and the people who prepared and printed the piece for us didn't clear that particular language with any of us," Mono said. The decision on "whether to go ahead and mail the piece because of the strong endorsements it offers Floyd, or throw it away because of the offending paragraph," still had not been made as of late Thursday night. Over 13,000 of the colorful mailers had been prepared for distribution to registered Democrats throughout the 15th Assembly District.

Mats survive San Juan rushes

Co-host Granada jumped off to a sizeable early lead and ground out a routine 72-62 win over the San Juan Spartans to advance to the semifinals of the Granada-Livermore City Classic last night in the Livermore High School gym.

The Matadors will face Oakland in their second round game, while McClymonds will match up against the winner of the Acalanes-Livermore contest.

San Juan faces San Ramon in one loser 's bracket game, while St. Joseph's takes on the loser of the Cowboy-Don tilt.

"It was about six different games in one," was Granada coach Pat Fracisco's only assessment of his team's victory. Fracisco was referring to the fact that the Mats opened up several large leads, only to have the Spartans battle back to within striking distance.

Lee Brennan flooded the nets with a career-high 33 points to pace all scorers.

Perhaps Granada's biggest asset in the game was their ability to remain calm. Midway through the final period, tempers flared after San Juan's Gary Dudley gave the 6-7 Brennan a healthy push. But while the incident inspired the Spartans to high degrees of over-aggressiveness, Granada treated it as the minor disturbance it was.

However, San Juan was able to cut Granada's lead to one, 59-58, with just under two minutes to play, when Steve Miller, who was high for the Citrus Heights club with 15 points, sank a jumper from deep in the left corner.

But, on the next Matador possession, Brennan scored from underneath and was fouled by SJ's Terry Purvis. The junior center converted the three-point play for a 62-58 Matador lead.

From there, the Matadors outscored the Spartans, 10-4, to wrap up the victory.

With 32 seconds left in the tournament's second game, McClymonds' Dave Cornelius sank a pair of free throws to put the Warriors ahead to stay, 57-55, over the St. Joseph's Pilots.

The Pilots had a final chance to win the game with two seconds left and the already at the final count of 58-56. However, Jessie Brooks missed the first of a pair of free throws, and on his second try an attempt to bank the ball to a teammate failed.

The timer had failed to start the clock on the play, but reason prevailed, and the referees declared the game over.

Mack had the lead much of the first half, but St. Joseph's got as close as possible when the second period ended.

With the Warriors up, 28-24, the Pilots' 6-2 center Tom Kidwell sank two free throws.

After husky Mack forward Fred Smith gave the West Oaklanders a minor amount of breathing room with a hoop from underneath, St. Joe's Ed Lankford worked a sideline drive from the right to make it 29-28 at the half.

The third stanza ended in a 44-44 tie.

After the lead had swayed back and forth, the Pilots grabbed it for over three minutes, as Orson Wells directed St. Joe's with three consecutive Pilot baskets for, 39-38 with 4:07 left in the period.

But Mack took the lead back at the 1:01 mark, when Ron Deering tallied on a beautiful two-hand drive down the lane. An attempt to convert a three-point play failed, and the Warrior edge was just 44-42.

St. Joe's knotted the score with 20 seconds left via a back-door pass by Lankford that freed Ken Gianotti for an unmolested lay-in.

Kidwell and Deering paced all scorers with 15 points each, and Martin GoVain had 13.

Lankford grabbed a game-high eight rebounds, while two McClymonds players, Donald Coleman, who fouled out in the third quarter, and Cornelius had five apiece.

In the tourney's opening game, Oakland High survived a 27-point San Ramon fourth quarter to defeat the EBAL doormats, 79-71.

Reggie Logan, who shot 55 per cent from the field, led the Wildcats with 20 points. Carleton Pierce and Mike Bell each grabbed 11 rebounds for the winners, while Logan collected nine of Oakland's total of 43.

Brad Blake pulled down eight rebounds for the Wolves, who had 31, while Jim Kaldem paced the losers' scoring with 18.

The lead see-sawed during the early going, as SR led, 7-6, after four minutes.

But an Audwin Thomas bomb from the right of the lane at the halfway point of the quarter put Oakland ahead to stay.

The period ended on a bizarre note, as the Cats' Pierce was nailed with a technical foul for dunking the ball. But Oakland found the ruling hard to take: instead of tabbing the 6-8 Pierce with the violation, the officials pointed to the 5-11 Thomas

Logan paced the Wildcats in the first half, as he got inside for several lay-ins (which he could have easily turned into dunks, the rules permitting) and hit a pair of long jumpers out of the corner.

True to its city-schoolyard basketball upbringing, Oakland, led by Pierce, Logan and Kevin Singleton, frustrated the Wolves with numerous blocked shots.

San Ramon rallied at the conclusion of the first half, but Norman Endo's 22-footer with 10 seconds left gave the Cats a 38-32 halftime advantage.

Blake brought SR to within seven with a left-hand lay-in with 2:14 to play, but Logan came right back with a drive down the lane to break the Wolves' stride.

The 6-0 Blake again cut the Cats' edge to the smallest it had been in the second half, 77-71, as he sank one of two free throws with 18 seconds left. However, the Wolves' rally ran out of time.

Pleasant Valley took the early lead, defeating Colfax by 27

Rayford and Troy Roberson led the Gaels with eight and seven points each. Dublin trailed Oroville, 9-2, at the end of the first five-minute quarter, then drew to within three, 15-12, at the half, before outscoring the host club, 13-10, over the final ten minutes.

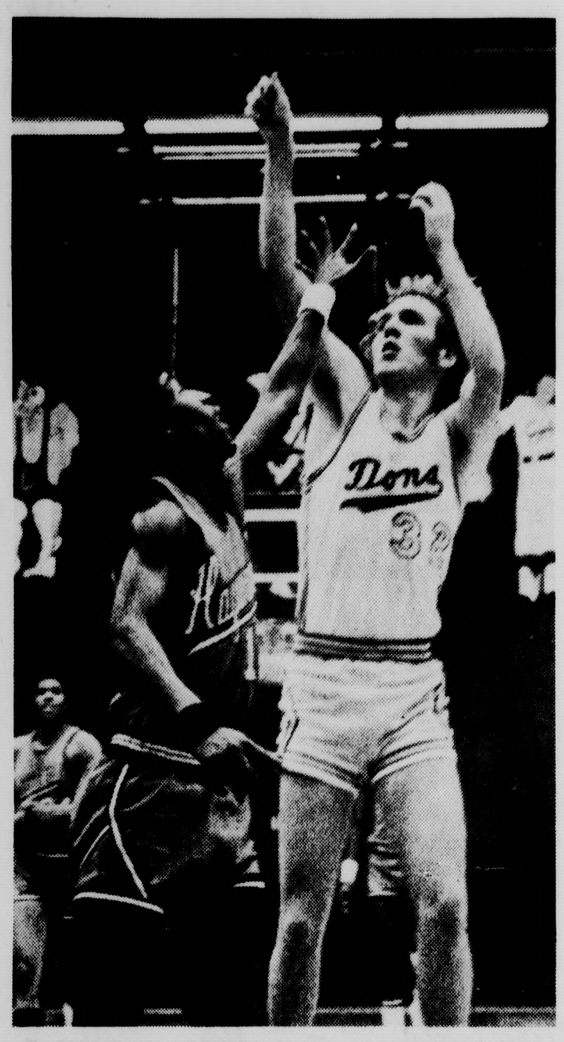
Hall's torpedo work vital to Don chances



RICH HALL SHOOTS OVER HAYWARD'S HAL PEARSON
Amador guard key man in tonight's semifinal

Oakland's Flecto Co., producer of wood-finishing products, is missing a sure bet sponsoring Preps of the Week.

The Flecto people haven't seen fit to honor Amador Valley High guard Rich Hall yet, and if nothing else, the job prospects would be worth the plaque.

Hall sees more floor-finishes up close than anyone in high school basketball. Undoubtedly he will inspect the varnish on Dublin High's court this evening in the North Coast Section semi-final with top ranked Bishop O'Dowd. Tipoff is 7:30.

The 6-1 senior is Amador's play-maker on offense with the loss of Phil Hansen. On defense he is a kamikaze.

"He's on the floor as much or more than any player we've got," says coach Skip Mohatt appreciatively. "Rich has started every game for us this year, and taken a great deal of punishment."

Between aching ribs, knees and ankles, Hall sparks the swooping, grabbing defense, generally accepted as one of the East Bay's best.

His role will be vital this evening, because Mohatt says O'Dowd possesses the finest offense in all of Northern California. "It's the most balanced we've seen," adds the Amador coach.

The crucial assignments will go to Hall, who must cover 5-10 guard Scott Finnie, and Jeff Hine, who draws 6-0 forward Grantland Bailey. They are the top scorers.

Hall, surprisingly, was an offensive key for Amador Wednesday in its win over Hayward. He scored 11 points, second only to Andy Finn's 15.

It was a noteworthy performance because Hall does not usually make a splash in the box score. His talents often go wasted on statistic freaks.

"He's not a guy who appears to be dominating, verbally or physically," Mohatt says. "But when you've watched him over two seasons, you see him in a different light. If I had to pick a single player who is an unsung hero on this team, it would be him. I've seen some super guards this season, some of the best in the United States, and I wouldn't trade Rich for any of them.

"He exerts himself consistently during a season more than anybody I've had, with exceptions like Bill Morelock and Jim Carter. There's no such thing as Rich grabbing a few-second breather down at the other end of the court."

No one can partake of such luxury against O'Dowd, riding into Dublin on a 22-game win streak.

The Catholic Athletic League champs are 31-3 for the year, a record that spurs envy and wryness in Mohatt. "They've won more games than we'll play in the next two years," he says. "They play six days a week, but not Sunday. I think that's a day of rest."

Bailey, a three year veteran for the Dragons, is the top scorer with a 14-point average per game. He'll be shadowed by Hine because, "In his last three years Jeff has been able to check most offensive threats," Mohatt says.

Bailey's average is a teaser, Mohatt adds. "They have so much balance, that somebody scoring 13 or 14 points could be scoring 20 or 25 on another team."

O'Dowd's big man is 6-4 junior center Mike Ward, who will run into the Dons' 6-7 Finn. The other starters are Phil Marrow and George Andrews, both all-league players in the CAL.

Besides a well tempered offense, the Dragons are likewise respected for defense. They will apply pressure all over the court. That could trouble the Dons, who gave Hayward 16 points Wednesday on turnovers.

Because two great defenses are clashing, the prospects are there for a low-scoring contest.

"If we keep them in the 40's, we'll win," Mohatt says.

The survivor plays for the NCS championship Saturday at Cal State Hayward against either El Cerrito or Redwood. The losers play there in a preliminary third-place game.

Amador opens against Redwood Thursday in the Tournament of Champions.

Five valley students to take part in Washington D.C. 'Close-up' program

Joyce Johnson of Amador Valley High School is one of at least five valley students who will take part in the "Close-Up" program in Washington, D.C., the first week of May.

Miss Johnson, a junior, is the daughter of Mrs. Peggy Johnson of Pleasanton. Her participation in the week-long study will be covered by a $450 scholarship.

Also attending will be Karen Knowles, Dublin High , and students to be selected at Livermore, Granada, Foothill and California.

Additional students may attend if a business firm in the community agrees to pay the costs of transportation and living.

Businesses wishing more information on providing a deserving student with the experience of studying government in Washington, D.C. should call either Ralph Laird , Amador Valley High; Paul Reginato, Livermore; Jack Lee , Granada; Bob Hagler, Dublin, or Don Landers, Foothill.

The scholarships are congressionally financed with the program organized as a memorial to the late Sen. Ellender of Louisiana.

This is the first year that high school students west of the Mississippi River have been eligible to participate.

Jim Krause, a 1966 graduate of Amador Valley High , was instrumental in getting valley high school into the program. He now lives in Washington, D.C., and is Northern California coordinator for "Close-Up."

Valley students will leave May 4. They will have opportunites to study the political system via visits to the White House, Congress, their elected representatives , the Pentagon and many other federal offices.

Instructors will accompany the students, who will be going through a week of concentrated study with activities planned daily from 8 in the morning to 11 at night.

Students selected must have one year or more of high school remaining and demonstrate an interest in political and social problems.

Amador has two other students who also would like to attend but need the backing of local business firms.

Miss Johnson is one of 8 brothers and sisters. Her older brother is in the U.S. Marine Corps.

Beazley, Donaldson our Amador choices

Any endorsement of candidates for a school board in this day must initially take into consideration the candidate's experience and ability to work and communicate with other board members, administration and teachers.

Secondly, the candidate must have the resolve to spend long hours on more complex matters involving pending legislation, be totally familiar with the schools and the valley and, above all, be able to listen and understand.

We believe the candidate's personality, the aptitude for communicating and adjusting, and experience are the paramount factors.

With this in mind, The Times has spoken to each of the aspirants for local school board office.

We have listened intently to their responses at candidates nights, read their comments to crucial questions and, where applicable, checked back with them a second or third time.

Our conclusion is that CHARLES BEAZLEY and DR. GERALDINE DONALDSON will provide the Amador Valley district the best possible service.

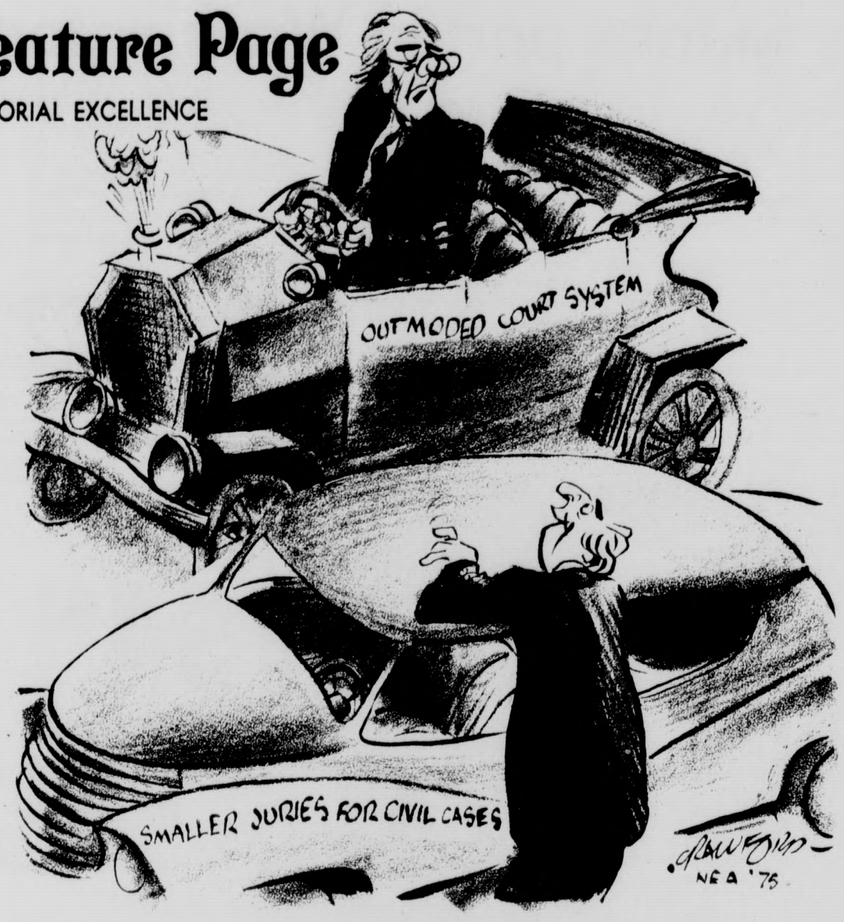
The two represent 21 years of proven service to the parents, students and teachers of Pleasanton and Amador.

Dr. Donaldson brings 12 years of expertise on the Pleasanton board to the high school district. She is a tireless and devoted worker for better education, is highly articulate and can immediately size-up and solve complex problems and situations.

Beazley, a veteran of nine years on the Amador board, brings a record of knowledgeable leadership to his position along with an awareness of the Sunol area's needs.

A resident of the Sunol-Pleasanton area for 15 years, Beazley has shown his concern for curriculum and facility problems, not being content to merely talk about solutions but to identify and implement them.

Beazley and Donaldson are involved with young people in their professional capacities, adding yet another "plus" to the high level of ability each brings to the trustee positions.



"This'll Get You There Quicker!"

Nostrand, Schwab

The Pleasanton Elementary board has five hopefuls vieing for two seats in the elections scheduled Tuesday.

Without doubt, the most exceptional "newcomer" is Betty Nostrand, a longtime participant in school district committee studies.

Mrs. Nostrand has exhibited a keen knowledge of current school problems and is not reticent at espousing new ideas or concepts or reinforcing established ones.

She will be a valuable addition to the elementary board who we are confident will give many years of excellent service and leadership to the taxpayers of this district.

Joe Schwab has served for six years, possesses a thorough and shrewd understanding of the students and teachers needs and, above all, works well with fellow board members and administration.

Additionally, Schwab has five youngsters in the public school system and is vitally concerned with the treatment of all our children, as well as the instructional staff and central office administration.

We feel the personalities of Schwab and Mrs. Nostrand will play a part in making the Pleasanton board of trustees an even more effective body.

Foster, Henderson, Snyder

There are three seats open on the Murray Elementary School District Board of Trustees and luckily for residents of the district there are three well- qualified candidates.

The first is incumbent Bob Foster, presently clerk of the board. Foster is an intelligent, inquisitive man and deserves re - election.

Our second recommendation is Ann Henderson. Mrs. Henderson is a former teacher yet she has the capacity to view teacher salary requests with an objective eye. She will make a fine school board member.

The third well - qualified candidate is Peter Snyder. Snyder has worked hard in civic affairs for the last ten years and has put in a lot of time recently on key committees in MESD. He is knowledgable and hard working and deserves election.

Yes on D

The Times urges a Yes vote on Measure D on Tuesday.

The proposal will aid the financially hard - pressed Murray Elementary School District and assure the continuation of quality education in the district.

MESD is not really to blame for their monetary woes and children should not be punished for the inability of the state to come up with a plan to adequately fund schools — especially in areas of declining enrollment like Dublin.

The Times strongly favors a Yes vote on Measure D.

For smaller juries

In an era of spiraling bureaucracy and jammed - up jurisprudence, this item out of Sacramento sounds a small, bright note. The legislature is considering a reduction of jury sizes to just six members in the hearing of misdemeanor cases.

Assemblyman Alister McAlister (D - San Jose) has introduced ACA 39 and AB 819 that would allow the six - member jury and lead to "speedier and more economical trials." Both the California Peace Officers and the District Attorneys associations approve the change. There is no word yet from the California Trial Lawyers' Association.

FOCUS/ School lunches

Nutritional concern

Two candidates for Amador and Pleasanton school board positions have spoken out in recent weeks on the nutritional value of school lunches.

This writer makes no pretense at being an expert on such matters, being content to accept the comments of Dr. Geraldine Donaldson, a school board member and pediatrician, Betty Nostrand and Robert Renard, the latter being Director of Food Services for the district.

What we understand is that food services in Amador and Pleasanton is finally getting its head above water financially but the nutritional value of what is offered could be open to question.

The latter is not confined to our local districts.

As a weekly reviewer and self-appointed analyst of school district menus from throughout the valley, I must confess I have some doubts about some of the items offered to elementary and high school students, particularly the latter.

I realize school districts are making some shall we say adjustments in the name of economy. But it is also known that legislation is being passed and put into effect that aid school lunch programs.

Like Sen. George Moscone's Senate Bill 2020, which went into effect January 1 but was retroactive to July 1 of last year. It provides five cents of state money for each school lunch or breakfast served in California public schools this year.

It has helped school districts hold the line on school meal prices in the face of drastically escalating food costs.

The five cents per meal was meant to supplement the federally-funded lunch program, and bring the state into line with what other states provide.

So why all the hubbub about nutrition if monies are flowing into local districts to try and combat escalating food costs?

The main reason is obvious . . . children learn better on a full stomach and even more so if the intake has some degree of nutritional balance.

Everytime we see pizza slices, burgers or spicy foods on the menu for an elementary school, the stomach does a couple of flip-flops.

According to Audrey Cross, consultant to the Senate Subcommittee on Nutrition and Human Needs, California school districts were beginning to consider phasing out lunch programs because they could no longer handle the extra cost of providing "Type A", or nutritionally-balanced, school meals.

Now that is frightening!

Districts throughout the state have found it difficult to break even on hot lunch programs, even though the average elementary school lunch price is about 50 cents and high schools average almost 60 cents per lunch . . . despite federal subsidies.

A breakdown of funding shows that every student buying a hot lunch is subsidized by 21.75 cents, and the Moscone nickel makes it 26.75 cents in California. Because an inflation escalator was built into SB 2020, districts will actually receive 5.37 cents in state funds per meal this year.

Still, most of the 850 school districts in California serving hot meals lose 10 to 15 cents on each meal.

With this is mind, Moscone introduced a new bill in December (SB 120) that would provide even further incentives for building and adding to existing school lunch facilities.

The measure is currently in the nutrition subcommittee and bears watching.

The primary thrust of this and SB 2020 are to assure that school children aren't handicapped by hunger.

We also hope that our children are not deprived of full nutritional value either.

It's one matter to provide hot meals, but quite another to ensure that it's not just food for food's sake.

round the town

The word came right from the top. The Postmaster General of the United States of America. "The nation is headed for its first decline in mail usage since the 1930's." The PMG says rising postal rates are to blame. The higher the cost of a stamp, the less inclined Americans are to use the mails.

The cutback applies to thee and me. To the suckers who still must use what is called "First Class Mail." The postal people explain. We pay more and get slower service. That's why our kind of mail is called First Class and their's is Fourth Class. The difference is in the rates. The delivery time is much the same.

Actually, our household has never known a piece of Second Class (3rd or 4th etc.) to be late. Every time we go to the mail box, there it is. "OCCUPANT, 4672 etc." Not a day goes by there isn't at least one piece of "occupant" mail in the box. Now THAT'S service!

The computer, God bless him, has allowed the big mail users to personalize their 3rd and 4th class pieces. Gone is "occupant" and "Hoseholder." Now they zero right on target. MR.AND MRS. JOHN B. etc. etc. The letters look like they've been punched out with a chisel. But the information is as accurate as your tax bill. And as irrevocable.

Once you get on somebody's list, there is no getting off. They multiply, in fact. Like bunny rabbits in the addressograph. Made the mistake a few years back of buying our high schooler a six months' subscription to a ski magazine. What followed was an avalanche of suggestive material from people and publications we never knew existed. About subjects we always figured were left in the confessional. SEX AND THE TEENAGER. PSYCHOLOGY TODAY. And a lot more.

Sometimes it's the title of the lead article that shakes up Old Dad. "What Jackie Wouldn't Tell!" declares one tempting piece. "Can Free Love Work for You?" asks another. The publishers send you a sample copy. "Send no check, we'll bill you later." And they sure do. Keep billing us with great regularity. Same address label every time. Same chisel. Probably even the same 3rd Class Permit. The Publishers' Conglomerate saves money that way. Only the code numbers alongside the name are changed, to confuse the innocent.

There is an inescapable fascination with the mail. All mail. Including the stuff you never ordered, and least expected. Even before you can slice open the envelope (there's always two or three more $20,000 EACH YEAR FOR LIFE!" Inside it gets even better. The letter is addressed to you, and you only. Your name also appears several times throughout the publisher's message. Only the spacing is changed to protect the authenticity.

We are informed that just us and two other families down the street have been chosen for this "once in a lifetime opportunity." (The "once in a lifetime opportunity" offered us six months ago was for just $10,000 per year for life.) Our package is coded. Our very own number. We simply have to transfer the coded number from here to there, pop the whole thing back into the gold envelope, and complete Phase One of the postal cycle. Phase Two includes a whole mess of books. "After the first one arrives, if you do not wish to receive volumes two through eighty five, simply advise us."

They work on the well - known American gullibility. Once caught on the postman's hook, we rarely get off. Books, record albums, magazines, the Greek Classics . . .the whole world arrives at our doorstep. Or rather stuffed in our mailbox. The lady of the house spoke of our need for a larger mail depository. I suggested we just stop answering the 3rd Class publishers. Get off the treadmill. Fat chance.

The bigger publishing houses now "diversify." That means they spread out into things like real estate, forests, girlie mags even. But the "flagship publication" is still the one they would have us remember them by. The Hearst newspapers were founded on silver, sustained by timber and cattle. The papers themselves lose a bundle. The Los Angeles Times Mirror Company owns a good chunk of downtown LA, plus some very profitable magazines. The Oakland Trib has all that extra office space in The Tower and adjacent places to help meet the monthly printing bill.

The New York Times announces a big dip in revenue for that distinguished metroplitan daily. But have no fear, "our net income from our newsprint manufacturing interests more than offset that revenue loss." They're gonna get you, one way or another, they're gonna get you.

"Reply today and you will save $15 on this set of first - publication Ethiopian Classics," the National Geographic people advise us. It's a regular $115 value. Simply sign the blue card, slip into blue envelope, give to your friendly postman. No postage stamp is necessary. National Geographic takes care of you, coming and going. Break this chain and you will have terrible nightmares about Haile Selassie. What a way to go.

Sound and Fury

Walt Hecox

There is a sort of half way house at the Grecian Health Spa in Livermore, a warm room where a man can rest between the searing steam bath, the icy cold pool and the broiling sauna.

The place is called the inhalation room, the first with such designation I have found in health spas and you can bet your sweet Post Toasties this old man, who is inclined to gain weight at the drop of a slice of toast, is familiar with health spas.

I work out at three or four of them, three belonging to Jack Lalanne where I have a membership paid through 1978, one at the Marines' Memorial Club in San Francisco (a one time women's health club which really has class) and one in the Sun Valley Mall at Concord.

Livermore is a new experience and so is the inhalation room, though it corresponds slightly with the Marine's "Cooling off" sauna.

We breath fumes from cakes of oil of eucalyptus in the inhalation room, a refreshing fragrance which gives a man the feeling his sinus has been cleaned by the fumes though it is really the steam and heat in the other rooms which does the job.

About 9:30 a.m. on Monday I was resting in that oasis between a couple of corners of hell when the black haired giant walked in and sat down, slim at the hips as a bulldog in show condition and just as broad through the chest and shoulders.

He draped his 242 pounds over the bench, stared in my direction for a few moments and then called me by name.

A man is surprised when a thing like that happens, though I am not as surprised as the next fellow, what with my face appearing right opposite the comic page day after day.

He was a ghost from my misspent past, more or less, a lad who was just winding up a spectacular athletic career at Granada High School about the same time I was ending my happy life as a sports editor.

His name was Craig Rochin, the muscular brother of Mike Rochin and the scion of a family which has earned some measure of fame in the Livermore-Amador valley for their varied and highly efficient performances on athletic fields.

Young Craig filled me in on his current status and that of his brother who is currently enrolled at Montana University where he is a pulling guard for the football team.

Craig is playing tight end at Chabot and considering a variety of offers from four year institutions. The young man is still growing and quick and strong enough to play professional football one of these days. He thinks about that, but not too much.

"If I get the chance, I'll take a crack at it," he told me. "Meanwhile its nice having football pay my way through college. Its a lot better than paying."

Rochin is glad to have that magnificent physique, grateful for what it can do for him but faces the world with a certain degree of realism and the knowledge he will one day have to work for a living and the better prepared he is the better.

We talked then about people we both knew, Jimmy Carter, who is playing for a football team which passes seldom in Hawaii, Rob Sulon, an all around athlete from Amador, Blair Thomas, who has moved from the University of Houston and sitting out a year — on the football — field, while attaining eligibility at San Jose State.

Another name crept inevitably into the conversation, one which has come to the attention of valley football buffs too often lately for the rumor which has been circulating not to have some measure of credance.

The news was not good, not if the rumor was true and I wondered if the tremendous gifts with which one young man was born were about to be wasted and how many youngsters like him have squandered their potential while living completely for the moment.

Sometimes it is hard to convince a young man there is a life to be lived when those nimble legs can no longer cut and dart off tackle or around the end, when the speed which once ran away from the secondary barely catch a bus on the way to work and the stamina which once seemed endless fades with each passing year.

I moved over to the steam room and managed to forget the scalding heat while my mind turned to another day, to a fall afternoon in Kezar Stadium when the San Francisco 49ers had barely begun their endless quest of next year and a tired old man kicked a football from the threadbare turf which wobbled through the crossbars some 20 yards away.

His name was Jim Thorpe, an old man at the time, tird, broke and almost friendless though people still nudged eached other when he passed while recalling the miracles he had manufactured on the gridirons, diamonds and oval tracks shortly after the turn of turn of the century.

Probably there never was an athlete with his versatility, or with his natural ability for that matter. Certainly King Gustav V of Sweden did not think so when he labeled young Thorpe as the greatest athlete in the world during the 1912 Olympics, no the writers who claimed he was the greatest football player of all time while attending Carlisle Indian School in Pennsylvania.

All that ability, the fame, even the notoriety which followed his being stripped of his Olympic medal, did little for him when those legs which had electrified a goodly portion of the world could no longer kick a football.

For most of his life Jim Thorpe was broke and broken, an old man living on his memories. He had learned to run and jump at Carlisle and nothing more.

There are many others in the athletic world who shared Thorpe's fate. The ranks of ex fighters are full of them.

The athletes whose skills can earn them college scholarships should know, as does Craig Rochin, how exceptionally lucky they are.

A man can't help weeping a little over one of the best of them who may be wasting that golden opportunity and heading for the kind of lonely oblivion which was Jim Thorpe's.

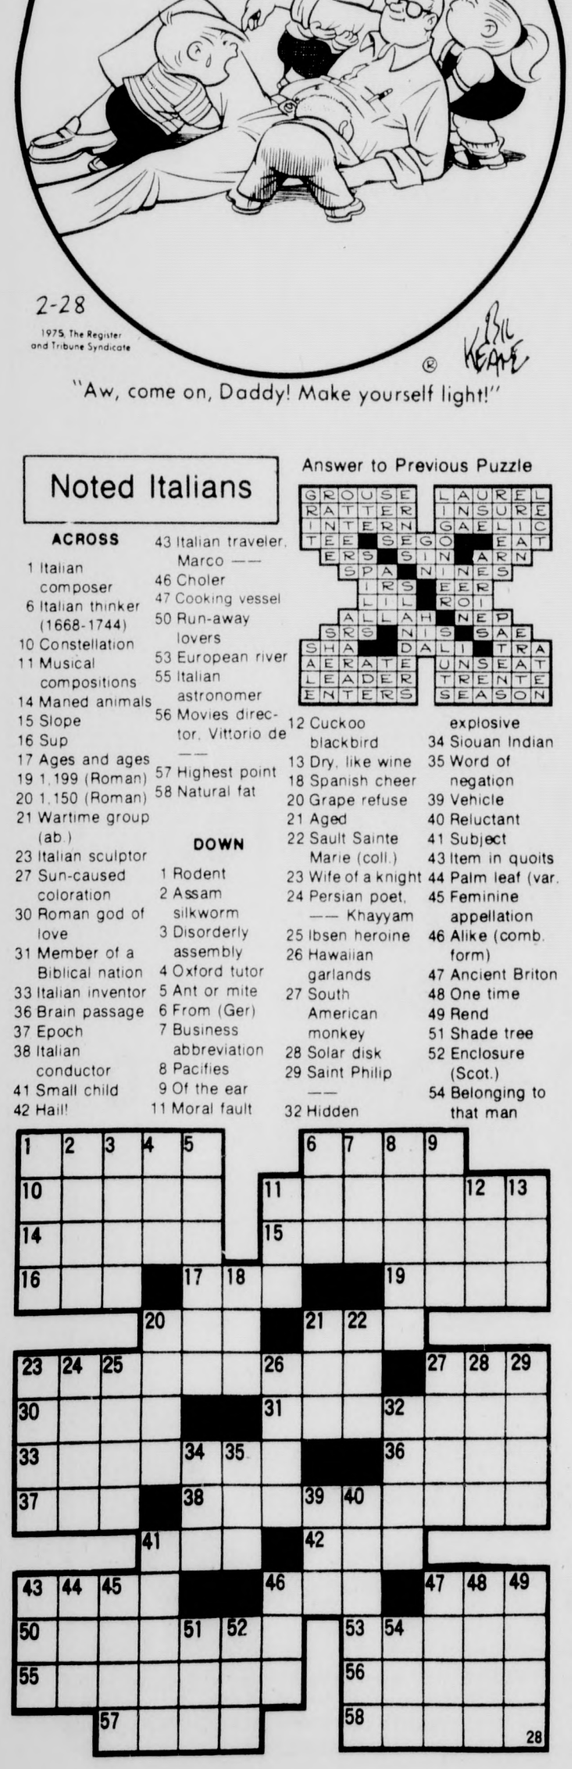
Answer to Previous Puzzle



astrograph

by Bernice Bede Osol

For Friday, Feb. 28, 1975

ARIES (March 21-April 19) An old, unresolved family issue may surface and put the damper on relationships at home. Don't be the one who brings it up.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You're too negative regarding something you're working on. This is why it won't benefit from your usual creative touches.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You will get your fingers burned if you fool around with something speculative, hoping to enhance your resources the easy way.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Watch yourself again today so that you're not hypercritical of loved ones, though you feel you're trying to be helpful.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Usually you're not a fault-finder; you look for some good in others or a situation. Today, however, you'll focus on the negative.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Now is the time to see if you can trim some fat from your budget for outside interests. Pull in your horns a bit.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Goals that you set now will not be handed you on a silver platter. Prepare for an uphill fight — you can make it.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Don't pass on unflattering information about someone else. It won't make you sound too good to the listener.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) An acquaintance obligated to you for something you did for her in the past will not come through as you hope.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You still have to be very careful how you handle others if you want their co-operation. A wrong move will lose an ally.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) There's going to be some delay regarding work or service you want performed now. Try to have alternatives planned.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Don't borrow anything today unless it's absolutely necessary. If you do, be extra-careful. Return it when promised.

your birthday

Feb. 28, 1975

You'll make some major changes this year that you've been contemplating. Improvements will not be noticeable at first, but as time evolves their values will surface.

Opening lead — J ♠

By Oswald & James Jacoby

If everyone got to the best contract all the time, we would be hard put to it to produce a bridge column. Thus, if North plays in notrump, he is sure of 11 tricks and will come out with 12 if East opens a spade as is quite likely.

When the hand was actually played East cashed two spade tricks and instead of making the normal lead of a diamond, which would give South a chance to fan his hand, East shifted to a low club. This unusual play gave South a chance to show that he was a real player.

A careless player would have promptly laid down the ace and king of trumps whereupon the combination of a 4-1 trump break and 6-1 club break would have cost him his contract.

Our good careful player played his ace of trumps, but his next trump lead was low to dummy's 10 spot. Then he led a club and discarded his last spade. West did the best he could to ruin South's game plan. He ruffed and led his 10 of spades, but South simply ruffed high, entered dummy with the jack of trumps and discarded his three low diamonds on the last three clubs.

CLASSIFIED ADS THE PLACE TO LOOK

AD LIBS

By BILL HAYDEN

I was looking for that beleaguered shopping center LIVERMORE VALLEY SQUARE on Railroad Avenue in Livermore; the one the fair city has cut off from customers — the commercial lifeblood of business — except for one small entry located on North P Street, but only if you approach it from the south.

You must be as confused as that sentence if you're a customer of those lively merchants and are in a hurry to reach them. From the north side of town it's a major project of decision and detour and this will go on and on for months in the name of relocation and progress.

Talked a few minutes with Betty Cappello and Tom Frederick of KEN'S CAMERAS. They were deep in a discussion of the new store policy. Betty has gone TOTAL DISCOUNT and you can get full information and some bargain samples from the KEN'S CAMERAS ad in today's paper. Seen below, the two 'shutterbugs' seem to be expressing considerable enthusiasm over the prospect of getting lots of wonderful camera equipment into your hands at big savings. Betty has a big Color Film Processing deal for you, too. 49 cents develops the film and prints are only 15 cents each.

A few doors to the east I was intrigued by the wide-open windows of H&W Stationers and all the good looking merchandise on display. Staffer Pam Heppner was — as they say on TV — cleaning some plates down to the shine. Couldn't resist checking out a very attractive young lady so intent on her work.

The china turned out to be some fine art reproductions with an historical motif. They are a great gift idea as far as I can see or you might like to have a set for your own table or wall. There was one with a Bi-Centennial design to acknowledge our big upcoming celebration. You can't say there's any grass growing under that Bob Heath. Anyone with Bi-Centennial merchandise available right now has got to be on the ball. The Heaths also keep H & W STATIONERS up-to-date on many other items, too. A quiet few minutes in their establishment can stir up all kinds of gift giving ideas. Cards, wrappings, ribbons, candles, figurines and lots of other colorful items are neatly arranged to catch your eye and fancy. It's worth your time just to stop in and see them. At H & W that's window-shopping with a vengeance! The whole store is one big magic window.

At the far end of LIVERMORE VALLEY SQUARE, I caught a smiling Jim Daly showing off the latest thing in the crazy world of cycling. Pardon me, I should have said, the cycling craze of the world. Whatever, Everyone at THE BICYCLE WORLD is excited about the Schwinn frame with the Motomag wheels. You'll really be putting things on a 'Daly' basis if you drop in and ask about this last word in riding high, wide and handsome.

Once you've gotten past the traffic bottleneck, there are many interesting shops and stores to make living a lot more fun. All those merchants are looking forward to serving you and that's a lot of service. Supermarket, dress shops, drugstore, restaurants, fabrics, photography, stationers, finance company, novelty store, variety store and beauty salon are available plus a paint center and bicycle shop. Get that LIVERMORE VALLEY SQUARE shopping habit.

A handy buyers guide comparing prices, standard features and options of 1975 small cars and trucks is being offered free of charge by participating Toyota dealers.

The 12-page booklet, called "Small Car Bargain Hunter's Guide," compares Toyota's Corolla, Celica and half-ton trucks with domestic and imported models. The guide was prepared by the editors of Road & Track, a leading automotive enthusiast magazine.

Comprehensive charts show the list price and standard features of the cars in each category. Consumers can tell at a glance whether such equipment as power front disc brakes, electric rear window defogger, whitewall tires.

Ford rebates ending today

Customers who participate in Ford Motor Company's "No Nonsense Rebate" program will share in an estimated $2.4 million in cash rebates in the Northern California sales districts alone, Ford and Lincoln-Mercury Division district sales managers W. J. Stroud and John H. Shoemaker have announced.

"Our dealers are expecting a continuation of the sharply increased floor traffic and sales this week with announcement that the rebate program would be extended to include eligible cars for which orders are taken through February 28 (today)," Stroud said. "And despite the impact of the rebate plan which has reduced dealers stocks of compacts and subcompacts, we still have a lot of 1975 model Pintos, Mavericks, Mustang IIs and SuperCab pickups on hand for immediate delivery with rebates from $200 to $500."

"The rebate leader for Lincoln - Mercury customers is the Capri." The rebates will be paid by Ford Motor Company on these cars delivered or ordered through today.

A porch can turn into that vital extra room

Converting a porch into an enclosed, year-round room can be one of the most economical ways there is to add needed living space to a home that has become overcrowded.

That's because the porch already has a floor, roof and one wall attached to the house. All that remains is to fill in the three remaining walls and install insulation and windows. If a porch enclosure is handled by a competent do-it-yourselfer, the savings in labor costs can be substantial.

The Western Wood Products Association says careful planning can trim costs even further. When selecting material for the project at the local lumber dealer's, discuss the various grades of framing lumber. You may be able to use a less expensive grade for part if not all of the framing and save on the cost and amount of lumber needed.

When you begin putting the framing together, space the studs at 24-inch intervals instead of the traditional 16 inches. In that way, less framing lumber will be needed.

Studs placed at 24 inches on center results in framing that is entirely adequate and is accepted by the Federal Housing Administration and the Veterans Administration when used in

Homes need yearly checkups as well

A top-to-bottom, once-a-year checkup of your home can be just as useful as an annual bumper-to-bumper inspection is for automobile owners. In both cases, owners are able to detect trouble before it develops into a costly repair.

Homeowners, for instance, often make the mistake of thinking their roof is in good shape just because there are no visible leaks or signs of damage. Before you're even aware of the need for a reroofing job, an undetected leak could allow moisture to seep down through the roof structure into the walls causing serious damage.

Don't climb up on the roof to check it. It's dangerous and walking on the shingles could damage the roof. Inspect it from the ground using field glasses. If there is evidence of a leak or damage, the Asphalt Roofing Manufacturers Association recommends that you call in a professional roofer for an on-the-roof inspection.

If the roof is fairly new and has suffered limited damage from a storm or falling objects, it probably can be repaired easily.

But limited repairs won't suffice for a roof that is badly worn. All roofs eventually succumb to the effects of weathering. Signs of age include excessive loss of mineral granules and cracked, curled or missing shingles. Best of all, try to determine the age of the roof. A roof of standard shingles 15 years old or older probably needs to be replaced.

Should you decide that a reroofing job is needed, consider the material to be used. Asphalt shingles, for example, often can be applied over the old roof, eliminating the expense of a tear-off.

The savings can be used to buy low-maintenance, top - of - the - line asphalt shingles designed to last 25 years. These heavy-textured shingles in popular earthtone shades of brown and green create a rustic, three-dimensional appearance that can be used to complement other color elements of a home or to make the house stand apart from its neighbors.

A useful color chart is included in a 20-page roofing guide available for 30 cents from SR&A, Box 3202, Grand Central Station, New York, New York, 10017.

Attic insulation can cut high fuel bills

Looking for a way to save money, increase your comfort, and conserve energy all in one easy do-it-yourself project? Then consider insulating your attic.

The reason is simple: most attics today are under-insulated and some are not insulated at all. The result is wasted fuel and higher fuel bills in winter since most heat escapes through the attic, plus high air conditioning costs and added discomfort in summer since most heat is absorbed through the roof.

Bringing an attic up to proper insulation standards, meaning at least six inches of fiber glass insulation or a thermal resistance rating of R-19, is simple. All it requires is a ruler or tape measure, a knife for cutting the insulation, a pair of gloves, and a few hours of your time. If, however, your attic requires professional installation help, call an insulation contractor.

Insulation for do-it-yourselfers can be purchased at most lumber yards, building supply dealers, or home centers, but before you're ready to load up the back of the station wagon, there is one important tip you should remember: A salesman can't always help you unless he knows three important numbers concerning your attic insulation requirements: thickness, width, and quantity.

To determine how much insulation you'll need and what type, follow these simple steps suggested by energy experts at Certainteed Products Corporation, one of the nation's leading manufacturers of fiber glass insulation:

1) If you already have some existing insulation in your attic, measure the depth of this insulation. This will determine what thickness of additional insulation you'll need. You may just have to add enough to reach the six-inch minimum level.

2) Measure the distance between the attic joists. You'll need this figure to determine the width of insulation you'll require.

3) Measure the length and width of the attic floor and multiply the two figures together. This will determine the total area to be insulated.

By pre-determining these three figures – depth of existing insulation, distance between the joists, and total area to be insulated – before you go to purchase insulation, you'll save yourself a lot of time by eliminating a return trip home. You'll be able to load up with the exact insulation that meets your attic's needs the first time you visit an insulation dealer's store.

Cleanliness is next to Godliness

Books, statues, pottery, sentimental treasures that collect more than their weight in dust and picture frames can be thoroughly and quickly cleaned by using the small round brush attachment that comes with most vacuums.

Give your carpeting that shampoo it needs. Even if you vacuum regularly, ground-in soil and dirt could weaken and destroy carpet fibers.

As for your non-carpeted vinyl or other non-wood floors, remove the wax buildup. Dust, dirt, and grease do get ground into the wax, making the floor look dirty no matter how often you wash it. The same industrial-strength cleaner that does your super chores will remove wax.

Inflation - proof tips for buying furniture

Today's economy - conscious homemaker, surrounded with vast furnishing choices, looks for professional advice to make up her mind when buying furniture.

To help resolve furnishing dilemmas, yet speed home redecorating this spring, furniture stylists at Babcock Phillips Co., have compiled a list of five tips for a good furniture buy. Each of the ideas keeps inflation from needlessly short - changing decorating dollars. The experts say:

1) Select easy-care furnishings that you can clean yourself. Carefree vinyls or other washable fabrics endure seasons of family activity and require little upkeep.

2) Choose furniture that can be built-up. For example, some modular styles allow you to "add-on" pieces as your budget permits. One unit makes a chair, two a loveseat and three, a sofa.

Modulars, which are staging a timely comeback, allow the do-it-herself homemaker to vary the look of a room by self-styling her own room schemes. A never - out - of - fashion style, modular furnishings conform to the shape of a room.

3) Made-to-move furniture is another inflation-proof investment. Durable, long-lasting additions that move easily from house to house and room to room are a perfect accompaniment for today's go-anywhere lifestyles. Hassocks on casters, for example, scoot from living room to den. Other ready - made movables are stack pillows and cushioned poufs.

4) Buy dual-purpose furniture that returns the investment two ways. For instance, a low-profile coffee table with handy seats tucked underneath not only serves up snacks or dinner but adds valuable seating to a space-pressed room.

5) Add color through furnishings, advise the Babcock Phillips stylists. An alternative to paint and paper remodeling, are colorful bright and bold furnishings which "paint" their environment. Color, which brightens and highlights, is an inexpensive way to give a room fresh zip.

Due to inflation's pinch, homemakers who once considered vast structural changes to the premises are settling for a few dollar-sound furnishing investments instead. The furnishing pieces they are putting in their homes are staying put – and happily so – for years to come.
